

About John Marra

Mayor, Timberlake

John is a native-born Clevelander and has been married for 32 years. He is a father of four and a grandfather of two.

He chose to run for the Timberlake mayor because he soon fell in love with the village very shortly after he moved in.

Living in a lake community was always a dream of a forever home his wife and himself. He knew he made the right decision as soon as he moved in.

His background in construction and owning his own company for many years prepared him well to serve. Being a businessman running many large construction projects and having many employees underneath his leadership, he felt he could make a difference in Timberlake.
